Black and white cards for new eyes

Bold black and white is easiest for new eyes to see. Cut out a card and prop it beside your baby during tummy time, or hold one up while you talk. Card stock lasts longer.

Cut on the dashed lines.

Free to print for your family and classroom.

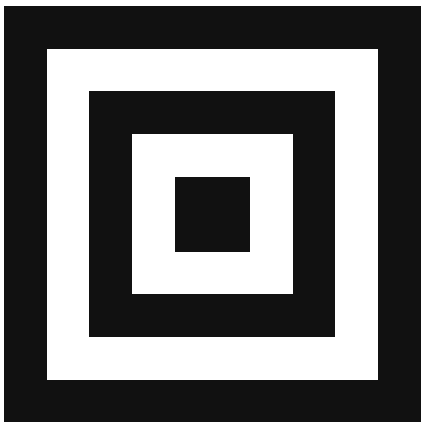

More black and white cards

Swap in a new card every few days: babies tend to look longer at a pattern they have not seen yet. Prop one up during tummy time, or tape one beside the changing table.

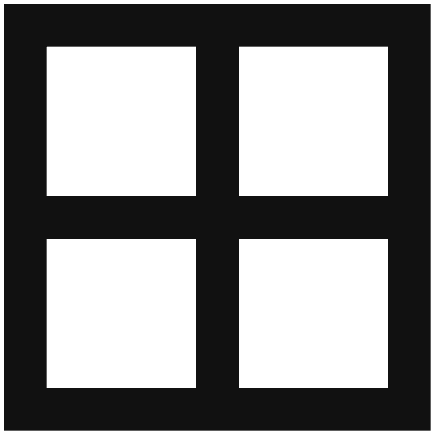

Cut on the dashed lines.

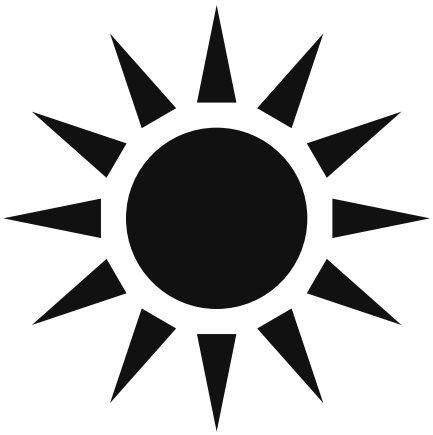

Free to print for your family and classroom.

Faces and shapes for new eyes

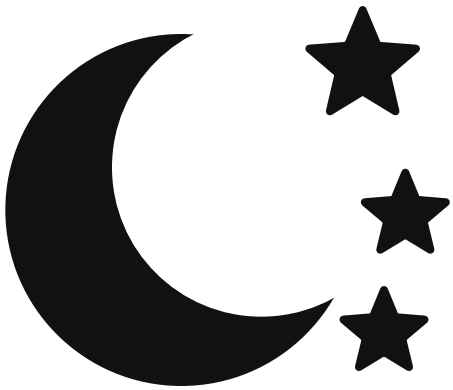

Faces are a newborn's favorite thing to look at, and yours is the best one. Hold a card about 8 to 12 inches away, then put it down and let them look at you.

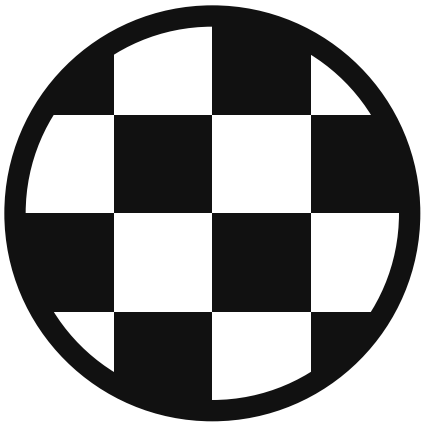

Cut on the dashed lines.

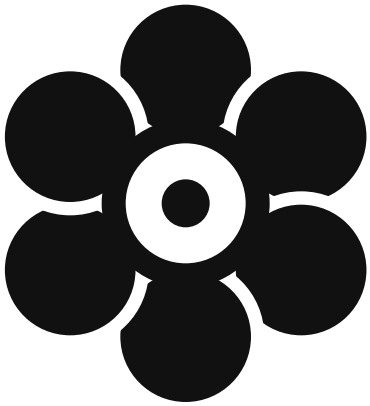

Free to print for your family and classroom.